

IMMIGRATION COURT UPDATE: STAY ON TOP OF YOUR HEARING DATE

Immigration courts are handling large numbers of cases through “mega master” calendar hearings, and hearing schedules can change quickly. Missing a hearing can have serious consequences, including the possibility of an in absentia removal order.

If you have an immigration court case, don't rely solely on an old hearing notice.

-  Protect your case:
- Check your EOIR hearing information regularly.
 - Confirm your hearing date and time, especially if you received a new notice.
 - Keep your address and contact information updated with the immigration court.
 - Check whether your hearing has been rescheduled or changed.
 - If you have an attorney, stay in communication with their office about upcoming hearings.
 - If you miss a hearing, contact an immigration attorney as soon as possible to discuss your options.

 Important: A missed hearing does not necessarily mean there is nothing you can do. Depending on the circumstances, there may be legal options to seek reopening of your immigration case.

Stay informed. Stay prepared. Protect your future. 🇺🇸

Contact Moreno Law Office, LLC to discuss your case and learn about your legal options